Electronix Servicer, Irving, Texas; Notice of Revised Determination on Reconsideration

The Department, on its own motion, has reconsidered its negative determination in Former Employees of Electronix Service Center v. Robert Reich, No. 94-06-00356, U.S. Court of International Trade. As a result of this reconsideration, the Department is now certifying the workers of Electronix Servicer ("Electronix"), in Irving,

Texas, as eligible to apply for trade adjustment assistance under Section 223 of the Trade Act of 1974.

As stated in the Department's July 13, 1994, denial on reconsideration for the subject firm, Electronix's customers reported no imports of computers like or directly competitive with those produced by Electronix. Administrative Record ("AR") at 43. New investigation findings, however, show that a major customer of Electronix changed its earlier statement to the Department and reported that, during the base period in question, it purchased computers competitive with those produced by Electronix workers, at discount retail stores. When combined with nationwide import figures, this new finding suggests that Electronix customers could be purchasing indirect imports of computers. These import figures show that the value of U.S. imports of data processing equipment and parts increased absolutely and relative to domestic shipments in the time period relevant to the investigation. AR at 13-15.

The Irving facility was closed August 31, 1993 and all workers separated at that time.

Conclusion

After careful review of the additional facts obtained on reconsideration, it is concluded that increased imports of articles like or directly competitive with computers produced at Electronix Servicer, Irving, Texas contributed importantly to the decline in sales or production and to the total or partial separation of workers at subject firm. In accordance with the provisions of the Trade Act of 1974, I make the following revised determination:

"All workers of Electronix Servicer, Irving, Texas who became totally or partially separated from employment on or after September 29, 1992 are eligible to apply for adjustment assistance under Section 223 of the Trade Act of 1974."

Signed at Washington, DC this 20th day of September 1995.

Program Manager, Policy and Reemployment Services, Office of Trade Adjustment Assistance.
